

The day after tomorrow Video Questions

Is it realistic to think that our climate is in a fragile state?

What does burning of fossil fuels have to do with global warming?

What is it that first triggers scientists to the development of severe weather?

What was the cause of the weather everyone was experiencing?

What was happening and where were the strange happenings that indicate a climate change? (India, Asia, NY, LA)

What do the birds and animals going crazy indicate?

Why does Jack think the North Atlantic current has changed?

What happens in the eye of the storm?

Why did they only evacuate the southern states?

Where did they evacuate to?

There is some irony to the evacuation process, did you pick up on it?

What were the things Sam and his friends did for survival?

Why did people begin to leave the city? What was wrong with that choice?

Could this type of climate change depicted in the movie happen to us?

Visit the website – <http://www.pewclimate.org/dayaftertomorrow.cfm> - Summarize and put into your own words the answers to the following questions. ANSWER IN COMPLETE STATEMENTS!

What is an abrupt climate change?

Could an abrupt climate change really happen?

What is the difference between “global warming” and “climate change”?

Should we worry about global warming?

Do scientists agree about global warming?

What is the Atlantic thermohaline circulation?

What are the chances of a thermohaline circulation shutting down?

How can global warming cause cold weather?

What can be done about global climate change?

Click on the link for “Speech: Myths and Realities of Global warming”

Explain the five myths the author makes in the article?

Explain the five realities the author makes in the article?